In addition to the corporate field of practice, the firm offers specialized services in the following areas: Aeronautics and Airports, Antitrust/Competition Law, Banking and Finance, Commercial Arbitration, Constitutional, Administrative and Tax Litigation, Consumer's Protection, Corporate and Commercial, Energy and Gas, Environmental, Estate Planning, Foreign Investment, Government Procurement, Health, Immigration, Insurance, Intellectual Property, International Trade and Antidumping, Internet and E-Commerce, Labor and Employment, Licensing, Distribution and Franchising, Litigation, Mergers and Acquisitions, Project Finance and Infrastructure, Real Estate, Regulatory, Restructurings, Workouts and Insolvency, Securities, Social Security, Taxation, Telecommunications, and Tourism.

The firm maintains close relationships with governmental offices and professional and business organizations in Mexico and abroad. It has participated with legislators, government agencies and private groups in drafting laws and regulations, and in exploring practical solutions to current legal issues. Its lawyers serve on boards of directors of many companies and non-profit organizations and also do a substantial amount of pro bono work for charitable and civic groups.

Santamarina y Steta has more than 90 lawyers fully devoted to the practice of law, of which 23 are partners. All such lawyers have a law degree from Mexican universities and are licensed to practice law throughout the country. A number of them have done postgraduate work in the United States and Europe and have participated in exchange programs with foreign law firms. Additionally, the firm is supported by its off counsel, Agustín Santamarina V., one of the most respected business lawyers, in Mexico. Likewise, it benefits from the advice that the retired partners regularly provide within their areas of specialization.
